The Editor's Chair:

It was told to me by a reliable person, and it jibes with all the historical facts, but I don't believe it.

* * *

The British Cabinet was in an all night session. The subject was Palestine, and the Arab riots had assumed a proportion which the British could no longer ignore. Jewish leaders learned that the Cabinet was definitely considering a complete stoppage of Jewish immigration to the Holy Land. That point had been settled, only the means by which the news might be released to the Jewish people was under discussion.

Without further ado, according to my information, a cable was sent to Rabbi Stephen S. Wise. Rabbi Wise, as this time, was on the political outs with President Roosevelt. Notwithstanding, he approached Postmaster General Farley. A telegram was sent to Roosevelt, and a cable went to the United States Embassy in London. And while the Cabinet was still in session, word was brought to the meeting that the United States, as a guarantor of the Mandate, was opposed to the stopping of Jewish Immigration into Palestine.

Historically these facts fit in with what happened. Rabbi Wise later stumped the East in behalf of Roosevelt, despite the criticism of many Jews, including this paper, who decried the political alignment of Jews and Democrats which the speeches indicated.

But I still don't believe it. Only a melodrama could concoct so even a sequence of events.

APPOINTED TO ANNAPOLIS

Special
LOUISVILLE—George Altman, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. G. Altman, has been appointed to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, it was announced here. A freshman at Purdue University, young Altman is a member of the freshman water polo team. He is the second Louisville Jewish boy to be appointed to the academy recently, Stuart Edelson, having graduated last year.

Reinold Werrenrath and six or seven other artists who have signified their intention of participating in the anti-Nazi League's concert have received threatening letters.

Is the Problem Too Big for the Anti-Defamation League

THE report of Rabbi J. X. Cohen, authentic and detailed as it is, is bound to arouse comment. What heretofore has often been suspected, and in many individual cases verified, has now been statistically recorded. Certain New York firms, many of them deriving a goodly portion of their revenue from Jews, definitely have clauses against Jewish employees.

Because of the magnitude of his findings, Rabbi Cohen suggests caution in dealing with the problem. The B'nai B'rith has a set procedure for dealing with firms who refuse to employ Jewish help. The Anti-Defamation League discusses the problem calmly and quietly with the owner, attempting to point out the error of his discrimination. The method, although tried and tested, may not be as effective as the public pressure which Rabbi Cohen suggests be held as a "powerful reserve".

Rabbi Cohen's investigation, however, has brought the evil out into the open. It has also shown that the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League is not capable of handling the problem. This is not said in any carping manner. The problem is bigger than has been suspected, although the Anti-Defamation League might have been expected to know this.

It is possible too, that the problem is so big that it will never be solved, even with the best work of every Jewish organization combined.

The Nazis Find a Solution For Overcrowding in the Professions

FOR years Jewish leaders have sought a solution for the unequal representation of Jews in the professions and white collar jobs. Understanding the historical and psychological processes which made the Jew pursue medicine, or law or teaching or the arts as a career, these leaders were able to get no further than the wishing stage in their attack on the problem.

But now comes a report from Germany showing that German Jewish graduates are turning their back on the professions. They are forsaking the loves of their forefathers, and marvel of all marvels, they want to be factory workers and mechanics.

To a psychologist, this phenomenon must be interesting. Of course the change is due to the Nazi glorification of the worker. But this propaganda has never been aimed at the Jewish youth, except in a negative way. Here it pointed to the Jewish preponderance in the liberal professions as racial obloquy.

The answer is simple for United States Jewish leaders. Import fascism, and you will automatically rid yourself of the vexing problem of too many Jewish doctors, and too many Jewish lawyers.

A Pastor and a Newspaper Do Their Bit Against Prejudice

IN February a year ago this paper received two subscriptions from the small town of Borger, Texas. One was from a Jew, I. Silberman and the other a non-Jew, Lloyd S. McCann, editor and publisher of The Hutchinson County Herald.

It is pertinent to point out here that the Herald is dedicated according to its motto "in perpetuity to the service of the People, that no good cause shall lack a champion and that evil shall not thrive unopposed".

Now the Jews of Borger, Pampa, and Amarillo, Texas, have no synagogue of their own. The Passover season was here and the Rev. J. N. Hunt, of the First Baptist Church, felt more keenly with the Jews of the vicinity, the lack of a place to hold worship. So Dr. Hunt issued the following invitation:

"You and your family are hereby most cordially invited to be our guests at a special service for the Jews of Borger, Pampa, and Amarillo at the First Baptist Church of Borger, at 8 p.m., March 21st, 1937.

"The object of the service is two-fold: First, to render an inspirational program to the Jews of Borger, who have no synagogue nor regular worship here. Second, to aid in creating a friendlier and a better understanding between our people and the Jews.

"The program will consist of special music, both vocal and inspirational, and a sermon by the pastor, J. N. Hunt, on the topic: ABRAHAM THE FRIEND OF GOD."

"Yours sincerely and fraternally,

J. N. Hunt."

The invitation was printed along with a news story on the front page of The Herald. After the service, the following story appeared in The Herald:

The special service held for Jews of Borger, Amarillo and Pampa in the First Baptist Church at Borger Sunday night was attended by so large an audience that extra chairs were placed in the spacious Auditorium. The Rev. J. N. Hunt delivered an inspirational, educational and interesting message on "Abraham, the Friend of God."

As an introduction to the sermon, the pastor gave the two-fold purpose of the gathering "to render an inspirational program to the Jews of Borger, who have no synagogue nor regular worship here, and to aid in creating a friendlier and better understanding between our people and the Jews."

Keeping the last phrase in mind, the origin and ancient history of Jews, showing Abraham as a founder of the Jewish nation, was discussed. The status of the Jews at the present time came in for its share of the message, with the Rev. Hunt elaborating on the great Zionist movement which has for its purpose resettlement of Jews in Palestine.

The pastor said marvelous development under the Zionist movement was going on today, along commercial, industrial, educational and agricultural lines. All landmarks of Jerusalem are being preserved while a beautiful modern city of 50,000 is growing up outside the old city limits. In this city there are paved streets, electricity, a modern $5,000,000 King David hotel, the greatest in the East and a $2,000,000 museum housing Jewish antiques, the gift of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Haifa, a city on the coast of Palestine, with its $3,000,000 harbor and many manufacturing establishments, is a booming, hustling city of 35,000, the center of Industrial activities of Palestine. Another industrial city is Tel Aviv, where agricultural interest is being developed rapidly, as is fruit growing and dairy-ing.

The speaker illustrated the great variety of climates in that small country, which is about the size of Vermont, by saying one could leave Jerusalem in a blinding snowstorm and on reaching Jericho, twenty miles away, find people picking bananas.

The general discussion dealt with Abraham's superb obedience to God. He told of Abraham leaving his home country at the age of 75 to obey God and go into a strange land, one he'd never known. After arriving in the strange land, Abraham set up an altar and worshipped God, and showed his faith and loyalty to Him by offering up Isaac as a burned sacrifice. But God intervened at the last moment through an angel, who led Abraham to a ram caught in the thicket, which he offered instead of Isaac.

"Abraham lives as the great friend of God in his illustrious descendants," the Rev. Hunt narrated.

As the descendants, he named Joseph, the preserver of a nation; Moses, the law-giver, who in the hot fires of Sinai welded the race into a compact nation; David, the greatest king, statesman and poet; and Isaiah, the greatest of major prophets."

May this paper add to the gratefulness of the Jews served by The Hutchinson County Herald, by thanking publicly Dr. Hunt for his thoughtfulness, and Editor McCann for his cooperation.

Freedom of the Press

Chides the Anvil Chorus

To the Editor:

It seems like the anvil chorus has already started against the Anti-Nazi demonstrations. As soon as the name Jew appears in the headlines in our newspapers, many Jews begin to quaver, and if the notice has been occasioned by a Jewish organization whether it be the Jewish War Veterans, the American Jewish Congress, or whoever it is, heads begin to shake and imprecations begin to fill the air. If the notice was brought about through some situation with which Jews had no part, there is nothing that our shah-shah Jews can do, and they suffer in silence.

As to Rabbi Lazaron's query what good the Madison Square Demonstration on April 1 accomplished, might I ask him who first created the Anti-Nazi sentiment in the United States, who pushed the boycott, who crystallized abhorrence against the Nazi regime in the United States. Were it left to Rabbi Lazaron, the people of the United States never would have really felt the injustice being done the Jew in Germany today.

I can remember when newspapers first carried news of Hitler, and printed the word Jew in headlines. What was printed was the truth, yet many Jews became worried, not at what Hitler was doing, but at the printing in the newspapers of what was happening to Jews of Germany.

People And Places

BY BERNICE KAPLAN

At Kirshbaum

After several week-ends of inactivity, the Kirshbaum fairly hummed with people last Sunday. Bustling around trying to register elusive A. Z. A. visitors was Roy Klezmer whose coaxing probably induced many an out-of-town gentleman to remain for awhile. Henry Fleck was in from Bloomington..... with a serious expression on his face, and in a continuous huddle with Lester Engle..... It certainly must have been important business..... Had a long talk with Arvin Rothschild, who is destined to be the proverbial "local boy etc.", with a journalistic position all lined up for him after graduation..... And to think that we used to be on the Shortridge Wednesday's Echo together. In the lounge David Maurer narrowly escaped being psychoanalyzed by Estelle Manus..... of course, he asked for it, but then, one never knows how those things will turn out. Incidentally, Estelle was wearing one of the most stunning outfits I have ever seen..... It's a grey and dubonnet suit—flat grey fur—dubonnet accessories, and she really looked swanky..... Speaking of clothes, it may be very smart to wear beige this year, but it does become a bit tiresome to have everyone in the height of fashion..... About half of the girls at the A.Z.A. dance wore a dress of that color..... Or may be I began to see double.

* * *

And now, on with the dance..... It was really swell, and thanks to the boys for the opportunity of hearing a fairly good orchestra, for a change. When Ginger Schwartz passed our table doing a bit of "truckin", one of our boys from Dayton, "Maley" (that is all I can remember of his name) almost popped out of his chair..... Poor boy! He's one of these lady-charmers, and the girls in this town apparently can't take him seriously, because two young ladies thought he was kidding when he asked them for dates..... Perhaps that is the penalty of being too fascinating..... And with all due respects to our local basketball team, the Dayton stars certainly do know their stuff..... Even if Sammy Smulyan kept getting under their feet, the visitors, with the aid of Boris Schneider, one of their ace shooters, managed to keep the title again this year.

Needed—Traffic Lights

On the dance-floor, whom do we bump into but Helen Lehman, a former crony of ours..... She is back from Akron for a short visit and it certainly is great to see her again. Really, something should be done about conditions at dances..... It was suggested, in view of the crowded floors, that the guests dance in shifts but probably nothing but traffic lights would organize a bunch of people who are determined to do their own peculiar steps with no regard for the others' shins. Among the couples who seemed to manage fairly well, notwithstanding, were Beatrice Waiss and Charley Sachs, Beryl Madiel and Alex Lazar, Leona Berman and Morgan Swain, Annette Lieberman and Harry Marcus. There weren't many B'nai B'rith members there although they were invited..... Ben Bliden was dancing, and Doug Brown took tickets..... Doug was unofficial shock absorber.... When anything serious and difficult had to be done, he was elected.

Names Make News

Others milling around were Eddie Goodman, all dressed up in a "tux", and tripping the light fantastic with Rae Lea Binzer. Betty Lapska, Harriet Tamler, Jeannette Rappaport, Rose Draizer, the Larmons, en masse, Howard Dulberger, Freddy Goodman, Sally Maurer, Julius Cohen, David E. Tavel with Jeannette Levenson..... she is back to stay after attending Ohio State University..... Estelle Levin dancing with Walton Sicanoff..... Sylvia Maierson and Henry Schildmeier..... a tall young man hovering very protectively around Lois Shapiro..... Mary Jane Falender, Nettie Marie Dulberger, Alvie Gornstein, Harold Stolkin, Herman Steinkele, and dozens of others. And now for some straight news..... The engagement we promised you has been laid away in mothballs for awhile..... We were just a little previous..... Harold Weil has been studying law for years, and we just found out..... Everytime Art Sachs comes home from Indiana, he attends Friday night services at the Beth El..... that is an example for some others to follow (I guess I'm guilty, too.)

Two hundred reservations have already been received for the Five Dollar Silver Plate Luncheon to be given by the Indianapolis chapter of Hadassah at 12:00 noon, Monday, April 26, in the Riley Room of the Claypool Hotel. Marking the twenty-fifth year of Hadassah accomplishment, the luncheon has the support of the entire Jewish community of Indianapolis. Mrs. Max Selig, chairman of the affair declared,

"Even though the response has been so splendid," Mrs. Selig said, "there is still sufficient opportunity for those who have not yet made their reservations to do so. This project is not for any one organization alone, but is the responsibility of every Jew. It is the aim of all Hadassah women working for the success of this Silver Jubilee Luncheon that a capacity crowd attend so that the local chapter may contribute substantially to the hospital."

BIRTHDAY BIOGRAPHIES

World Is Not Getting Worse, Samuel Mueller says; Admires Modern Youth.

Although he wouldn't state his exact age, Samuel Mueller, busily performing the duties of his new position as director of the promotional and extension department at the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, did say that his birthday will be April 11. With a proud smile he added that this year helping him celebrate, would be his first grandchild, who was born several weeks ago. Mr. Mueller is a native of Austria and came to Cincinnati at the age of three years. He attended school there, and after several years in the furniture business came to Indianapolis where he started the Great Western Furniture Co. Retiring from private business in 1936, he accepted a position with the extension division of the Better Business Bureau, which he held until recently.

Mr. Mueller first began his community activities at the time of the World War when the Liberty Loan campaign was in progress. Successful in his part of the work, he was again called upon when the Indianapolis Community Fund was organized. As one of its directors, he has made a great effort to secure the support of the Indianapolis citizens and has become known as a convincing and earnest speaker. This year, in recognition of his civic leadership, Mr. Mueller was chosen president of the Jewish Welfare Fund, whose campaign begins April 29.

Mr. Mueller is sincere in his social service endeavors. He expects no thanks. To him, "the greatest pleasure is to be able to do something for the people who are underprivileged." Contrary to the consensus of opinion, he does not believe the world is getting any worse, and is an admirer of the modern youth. As he said, "I greatly respect these young people who are so candid and truthful."

In addition to his positions in the Community Fund and the Jewish Welfare Fund, Mr. Mueller is vice-president of the Jewish Federation, president of the Indianapolis Furniture Association, and a member of the B'nai B'rith and the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation.

Indianapolis Jewry should be proud of Samuel Mueller, not only for what he has done, but for what he is, a fine representative of our race, who follows the precepts of his religion by his genuine concern with the happiness of humanity. Judaism endures only through the excellence of its own people and Samuel Mueller has upheld that excellence.

BOARD MEETING SET

Mrs. Samuel Dorfman president of the Indianapolis Section of the National Council of Jewish Women, has announced a board meeting at 9:30 a.m., Wednesday, April 26, at Kirshbaum Center.

Kempler Radio to Mark 7th Birthday

From a "standing start" in a depression year to an annual volume of $100,000 is the enviable record of Kempler Radio Company, which on April 10 will round out seven years in business. The company is headed by Leon Kempler.

Established by Mr. Kempler in 1930, the firm opened in a small room in the old Pembroke Arcade building. The stock consisted of one electric radio and ten battery sets. The "personnel department" included only Mr. Kempler, who functioned as salesman, service man, bookkeeper, collector and purchasing agent.

In the fall of 1930, a move was made to slightly larger quarters at 36 Virginia Avenue, and a service man was added. The next three years saw a steady increase in personnel, and now at the peak of the radio season the firm employs sixteen people. The present spacious quarters at 107 N. Pennsylvania Street were occupied in June 1936.

The new store is completely equipped with modern fixtures, and embodies many ideas in arrangement and equipment originated by Mr. Kempler.

Known as "The largest exclusive radio store in Indiana", the firm last year was the leading dealer for three of the leading makes of radios: Philco, Zenith, and RCA. Last December more than six hundred radios were sold.

The firm handles several of the leading brands of electric refrigerators and washers, and is adding Performances at the dress rehearsal last Wednesday night indicate that "The Night of April 11th" presented by the Indianapolis Section of the National Council of Jewish Juniors Sunday in the Indianapolis Athletic Club will surpass all previous productions in talent, beauty and interest.

Miss Rae Binzer, ticket chairman, has announced that many tickets have been bought by many members of senior organizations. New additions to the cast are Leonard Bernstein, Art Sapir, Bob Netzorg, Sylvia Madiel, and Ethel Kaplan. Costumes have been bought from one of the leading theatrical costumers in the country and unusual lighting effects are to be used.

The show will start at 8:30 and dancing will follow immediately after the final act. Larry Price and his orchestra will play. Admission is $1.00 per couple, and formal dress is optional.

B'NAI B'RITH TO MEET

The Indianapolis lodge of B'nai B'rith will meet Monday night, April 19, at Kirshbaum Center. Richard Efroymon, president of the organization, will announce the program next week.

a home planning department which will include kitchen equipment, air conditioning, stokers, oil burners, and all electric equipment for the home. The new department will be manned by recognized experts.

A warehouse salesroom has just been opened at 437 E. Washington, where used radios, washers, and refrigerators are completely reconditioned and rebuilt before being offered for sale.

Question: Are you in favor of the American Jewish Congress mass meetings?

Answers:
Miss Alice Davidson, 3010 Broadway.

Yes. The majority of people don't understand what is happening in the world and when they go to these meetings they are educated and receive advice on how to handle various situations of national importance.

Robert Robbins, 1350 Union St.

Yet, it has some merit. It brings people together to hear capable speakers discuss vital problems and in this way, people learn what is going on and what to do about it.

Lawrence Caplin, 1105 S. Capitol.

Yes. If the Jews expect to survive they must stick together, and I am in favor of anything or any organizational work which will instill in the Jews a feeling of loyalty.

Rae Lea Binzer, 4327 Carrollton.

No. Mass meetings excite people, but they don't help much. The people who attend the meetings are not numerous enough to have much power when fighting against real opposition. Also it creates prejudice.

Art Sapirie.
No. It can't get results. Mass meetings are not constructive enough.

Temple Brotherhood to Hear H. Chaillaux

Homer L. Chaillaux, national director of the Americanism Committee of the American Legion, will be guest speaker for the brotherhood of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation, Wednesday, April 14, in the Temple. Mr. Chaillaux's subject will be, "Guarding American Liberties", and will deal with the various subversive and un-American tendencies now prevalent.

Election of officers will also be discussed.

FREE LOAN MEETING SET
The Gimeles Chesod-Hebrew Free Loan Society will meet at 2:00 p.m., Monday, April 19, in the Talmud Torah Building. Members are asked to note the change in date this month from Sunday to Monday. On the program will be a prominent speaker and several musical numbers.

OUR FILM FOLK ... of HOLLYWOOD

By HELEN ZIGMOND

HOLLYWOOD—Oscar Strauss, Viennese composer, came to Screen-town this week. An imposing committee greeted him, including Irving Berlin, Sigmund Romberg, George Gershwin, Erich Korngold, Jerome Kern, and Rudolf Friml—all masters of melody. Strauss comes this time—his third visit—to write a musical for Bobby Breen..... says he likes working in the films but not in front of a camera..... tried it once in a Lubitsch picture..... played the piano, but thought the result a little ludicrous. He was lionized at the afternoon reception, but he took it all with a quiet smile, while an orchestra poured forth a steady repertoire of his music. Among the celebs was Cantor, eyes popping in some fiery discussion. And Lubitsch was there without his cigar!

Button, button, who's got the title? Maxwell Shane and Bill Thomas wrote and sold a screen story entitled, "My Girl Friday." Winchell heard the news, blew up, "thank you." Whereupon another studio burrowed in its archives, discovered that it had purchased a play called, "My Girl Friday," some twelve years ago from William A. Brady. Now all the contenders need is a referee.

Modesty: Paul Muni didn't think his performance in "Good Earth" so great..... decided not to see it..... until..... someone told him that the audience had cheered him at the preview.

Moe Howard, one-third of the Three Stooges, visited his young daughter, Joan, at school. To test his knowledge she asked him what happened in 1776. "What street?" blinks Moe. Fourth-grader Joan advised him to go to school and she'd be the stooge.

Few people know that it was Leopold Godowsky, son of the famed pianist, who invented and sold to the Eastman company the color process now being used for Kodachrome film. Many hours did the youngster monopolize the family bathroom, turning it into an improvised laboratory for photographic research. It made life hectic for the Godowskys but resulted in a ten-year contract for him with Eastman film company.

Anti-Nazi Play Hits Broadway Next Week

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—An anti-Nazi play that needed the protection of machine-guns when it had its premiere in Zurich, Switzerland, will open in New York next Tuesday night under the auspices of the WPA Federal Theatre Project.

The play is "Professor Mamlock," by Friederich Wolf, an exiled German playwright. It will be shown in Daly's Theatre here.

"Professor Mamlock" has already been seen in twelve countries and heard in eleven languages. This will be its first performance in America and in the English language. The translator is Anne Bromberger.

When the play had its world premiere in Zurich in 1934, Nazis demonstrated and it was necessary to call troops to the scene and mount machine-guns around the theatre to prevent disturbances.

Wolf, who visited the United States in 1935, is author of "Sailors of Cattaro," produced in New York by the Theatre Union in 1934, "Cyankali" and "Kollone Hund."

King Receives Prato and Community Leader

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

ROME—King Vittorio Emanuele last week received Dr. David Prato, new chief rabbi of Rome, and Engineer Recanati, head of the Rome Jewish Community, in a private half-hour audience.

The King asked many questions of Dr. Prato concerning the Jewish community's organization and general problems in which the community is interested. He also displayed keen interest in the Falashas, Ethiopian Jews, asking many questions about them.

Ine continued to play small parts. She did get a fair role in one picture, "Straight from the Shoulder," but it didn't even ruffle the Hollywood ice. Sylvia advised her to try New York. Katherine went east..... ended her career..... at the altar. Sylvia heard no more about her. Months later, when Kober cast about for a lead in his play, he tried to get Sylvia Sidney. She couldn't take it, but said she would get someone. She meant Katherine, but where to find her? She inquired everywhere, almost gave up the search, when one day she bumped into her protegee on the street. The critics have told you the rest. There only remains to tell of her triumphant return to Cinematown which should be soon, with several studios now angling for her signature.

Shavings: The two-ing and cooing of Libby Holman and Phillips Holmes begin to look like Spring. Phil Baker, writing his life story, is tagging it, "Philosophy of a Ham." M. Robert Guggenheim, Jr., of THE Guggenheims is just plain "Googie" around the set where he is an assistant director. Eddie Cantor purchased a little eight-room cottage as a permanent residence for $133,000. The widow of Arnold Rothstein wired Ricardo Cortez her thanks for his sympathetic portrayal of her late husband, Alexander Leftwich, Patricia Ellis' father, will turn actor for a part in "Zola."

Some weeks ago a dignified resident of Beverly Hills was approached about selling a piece of property adjoining his home. He was interested, the price was set, the deal made, and the property passed into the hands of one Arthur Marx. It was later..... too much later..... that the owner discovered Arthur is the legal name of Harpo Marx. Wurra.... wurra..... now he daily expects the comic to come galloping down Beverly Boulevard astride his golden harp. Harpo won't though.... he'll think of something much worse.

Sues to Delete Name From Book

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Dr. Karl Landsteiner, celebrated research scientist and Nobel Prize winner, is suing the publishers of the forthcoming "Who's Who in American Jewry" for an injunction to prevent the use of his biography and is asking charges of $100,000 in case it is printed.

The case, which may serve as a test of the legal right to list a person of Jewish descent as a Jew against his will, was in the hands of Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. Hammer for decision following submission of additional affidavits by both sides.

Dr. Landsteiner, a Roman Catholic by faith, said publication of his name and biography would cause "irreparable injury to my private life and profession." He said "it will be detrimental to me to emphasize publicly the religion of my ancestors."

Holding he would "be greatly distressed and humiliated and exposed to ridicule and contempt," the scientist said he wished to spare his son the humiliation of finding out he was Jewish.

In the papers filed on March 11, Dr. Landsteiner said:

"My son (Ernest) is now 19, and he has no suspicion that any of his ancestors were Jewish. I know as a positive fact that if my son were to see the book that is about to be published it would be a shock to him and might subject him to humiliation."

"Since I have migrated to this country I have adapted myself to the customs and ideas of the American people. I want to avoid any publicity which might segregate me from my American friends and place me in a category which I do not desire."

Dr. Landsteiner is listed in the Biographical Encyclopedia of American Jews published in 1935. He was born in Vienna in 1868 and since 1922 has been a member of the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research in New York. He won the Nobel Prize for medicine in 1930 for his discovery of human blood groups.

Jews Join In Drive for Catholic School

By Conference of Jews, Christians

ALBANY, N. Y.—Judge Sol Rubenstein, chairman of the Jewish Community Center's Committee on Civic Cooperation, today appointed a special group of leading Jewish Laymen to solicit contributions for the Building Fund Appeal of the Christian Brothers' Academy, Catholic Boys School here. A committee of Christians last year participated in the fund-raising campaign for the local Jewish community Center.

Having been deeded a site by Albany County, through an act of the Legislature, the current drive seeks to raise $250,000 of a required $400,000 for construction purposes. The present structure, in the business section of the city, is outmoded.

"All civic groups," Judge Rubenstein declared, "have much at stake in the success of the Christian Brothers in securing funds for their new academy. We are not unmindful of the generous public assistance rendered us during the campaign for our new center. This undertaking has broad community aspects and it is our desire to offer our assistance to the brothers in full cooperation with the Special Gifts Committee and general team organization."

Prominent Protestants and Jews are also serving in a Citizen's Committee of Sponsors for the Fund Appeal.

Detroit Jewish Charities Get $200,000 In Bequest

Special

DETROIT—Following the example of his sister who left $150,000 to the United Jewish Charities of Detroit, Joshua Cohen, who died March 20, bequeathed $300,000 to the same fund, his will probated this week reveals.

The bequest is the largest ever received by a Jewish cause in Detroit.

By the terms of the will, the money must be used for charitable purposes in memory of Mr. Cohen's father, Simon Cohen; his mother, Rose Sittig Cohen; his brother and sister, and himself.

The estate consists of valuable property in the center of the city facing Michigan Ave., and Lafayette St., and cash and bonds.

HIRSCH TRIUMVIRATE

er's license in America. Among horsemen today she is accepted as a first-class trainer.

Buddy's story is not so well known and is a short story at that. He has only just begun to roll. But, like his sister Mary and his father, Max, he is a real horseman. His four-year-old mare, Columbian, won the $50,000 Widener Cup in Miami about six weeks ago.

Horse In Fine Condition.
Columbian didn't beat a whole lot. Three of the better nominees had been scratched. But Buddy's horse beat the best she was asked to face—and it did take a fit campaigner to turn back a field of eight others—each rated over and above the Hirsch mare. The form chart tells the story. Columbian won going away. She had plenty of run, plenty of stamina, plenty of heart. For a mile and a quarter she equalled the track record of 2:01; 4-5.

It should be mentioned that the elder Hirsch sent Bold Venture out to win the Derby and the Preakness last year when very few people gave his colt a tumble. Bold Venture was anything but a solid animal at the time, and it required the most skillful sort of handling to bring him up to the races in good form.

As the story goes, Max was sitting around with a couple of reporters the night before the race in Louisville and he was asked to forecast the result. Brevity—you may recall—was the favorite. "I can never tell when my colt is going to crack up," said the old gent. "I think he's good enough to win, but I wouldn't pick him any better than second. There isn't a great deal of class to Brevity, but he's a sound horse and ought to win the race. You pick Bold Venture to run second and you'll be close enough."

The records now tell the story. Bold Venture won and Brevity was second. Bold Venture was first to become the first horse trained by a Jew and owned by a Jew, Morton L. Schwartz, to make it a semicircular field day on the famous Blue Grass track. But that is not all, a few days later Bold Venture came out for the Preakness. There was a feeling around the barns that the comparatively frail colt couldn't do it again—that it was asking too much of him. But not his trainer, Max Hirsch.

Said Max, "There's only one horse in this race that's got a chance against my colt, and that's Oranville. Bold Venture is stronger now than he was for the Derby. I don't think he'll crack up unless he gets bad racing luck. Pick him to win and go to sleep on it." —Bold Venture won again.

It does seem evident that this

Leading Columbus Church To Use Synagogue for 3 Months

By Conference of Jews, Christians

COLUMBUS, O.—For the first time in the history of the Jewish community here a Christian congregation will use the facilities of a synagogue as a place of worship for the next three months.

The congregation is the Broad Street Presbyterian Church, Dr. Harry Cotton, minister, the leading Presbyterian Church in Central Ohio, with a membership of 1750.

The invitation to the Christian congregation was extended by Rabbi Samuel M. Gup, Rabbi of Temple Israel, when he learned that the Presbyterian congregation would be without a place of worship, owing to their program of remodeling their own building at a cost of $150,000. The facilities will be used on every Sunday morning.

triumvirate—Pappy, Buddy and Mary know their horses. And, no matter how you figure it, there's a great deal in this business of breeding whether it be horses or kids. Pappy Hirsch is unusual—he's specialized in both.

Yiddish Hit By Rabbi Isaac Wise

Special

CINCINNATI—Answering a correspondent who had complained because his friends objected to being spoken to in Yiddish in the presence of a Gentile, Rabbi Isaac M. Wise, in a letter in The American Israelite, here, wrote, "Yiddish should never be spoken in any public place where the English language is understood."

Continuing Rabbi Wise said, "if the Jew wishes to express himself in some other language other than the leading legitimate modern language it should be in the Hebrew, the sacred language of our Fathers. We have no right to ghettoize ourselves, for so to do is to follow not Moses and the prophets, but the Hitlers and the Goerings and the Rosenbergs."

"A resolve not to speak Yiddish if not strictly necessary is a resolve to defy the Nazis. But a resolve to popularize Yiddish is a resolve to work to reduce the House of Israel everywhere to a second-class citizenship."

Catholics were among the strongest supporters of Dickstein's investigation measure.
